

Sustainability & Greenhouse Gas Emissions Commitment Statement

Barahi Jungle Lodge is committed to reducing our environmental impact and minimizing greenhouse gas emissions across all areas of our operations. We recognize that our activities affect the environment through energy use, water consumption, and waste generation, and we are committed to continuous improvement in each of these areas.

Energy: We commit to reducing energy consumption across all properties by [e.g., improving efficiency, switching to renewable sources, upgrading equipment, and encouraging responsible use among staff and guests].

Water: We commit to reducing water usage through [e.g., efficient fixtures, responsible operational practices, and staff awareness], recognizing water conservation as both an environmental and resource priority.

Waste: We commit to minimizing waste generation by prioritizing reduction, reuse, and recycling, and by working toward diverting waste from landfill wherever possible.

This commitment applies across all our properties and operations. We will regularly review our performance in these areas, set targets for improvement based on ongoing assessment, and report on our progress. All staff share responsibility for upholding this commitment in their day-to-day work.
